

Ride to Thrive raises funds for cancer support services

NOVEMBER 2, 2018

The 4th annual Ride to Thrive fundraiser for the Virginia Thurston Healing Garden Cancer Support Center of Harvard, Oct. 14, raised $52,000. The funds benefit the center's holistic cancer therapies, support services, and education for men, women, and caregivers affected by cancer. Eighty-seven riders from Harvard, Acton, Boxborough, and beyond pedaled their way through the scenic towns of Nashoba Valley, raising funds to allow services to remain at low cost for patients and families experiencing the financial impact of cancer.

From left: Healing Garden board member Holly Kouvo, board member Marcia Croyle, Director of Integrative Care Brianne Carter, executive director of the Healing Garden, Margaret Koch, board member Pamela Sawyer, and board member Karen Shea. (Courtesy photo)